2013 REPORT

$106.8
million

The annual Florida TaxWatch Turkey Watch spotlights legislative projects placed in the budget without proper opportunity for public review and debate...

This year, Florida TaxWatch has identified 107 member projects and other items historically referred to as “Turkeys.” These appropriations total $106.8 million and are recommended to the Governor for consideration in his line-item veto process. Despite a budget surplus for the first time in several years, the Legislature showed some restraint when adding local member projects and other projects historically referred to as Turkeys. This year’s Turkey Watch Report is smaller than last year’s, when 159 items worth $171 million were in the budget, in spite of the multi-billion dollar shortfall in that year.

The annual Florida TaxWatch Turkey Watch spotlights legislative projects placed in the budget without proper opportunity for public review and debate, which circumvent lawfully established procedures, or which non-competitively benefit a very limited special interest or local area of the state. The Turkey label does not signify a judgment of a project’s worthiness. Instead, the review is focused on the budget process. Items that benefit a less than statewide interest or specify a private entity for a grant or contract should get the review, deliberation and accountability that taxpayers deserve.

The 2013 Turkey Watch Report consists largely of appropriations to specific recipients or local governments that were added in conference and appropriations that bypassed established selection processes or competitive bidding. Awarding contracted services to specific providers bypasses competitive bidding and agency input into where limited funds are needed most. The majority of these projects could be considered local member projects. Flexibility is allowed for earmarks to historically funded projects and most items that were contained in both the House and Senate budgets.

The role of the agency legislative budget request (LBR) in the Turkey Watch review process has been mischaracterized recently during legislative meetings. Not being included in an agency’s LBR does not make something a Turkey; however, being in an LBR does usually prevent something from being a Turkey, as being in an LBR means that the item was in the budget process from the very beginning and the Governor, the House, and the Senate all have a chance to review it and remove it from their budgets if they wish. The Legislature funds many things that were not requested by an agency but are not called Turkeys each year.

The 2013 Legislature should be commended for crafting a good budget for the taxpayers of Florida. It was able to increase funding for a number of programs that are important to Floridians, such as an additional $1 billion for education, and includes raises for teachers and other state employees. The Legislature was able to do this without raising taxes and keeping more than $2 billion in reserve. The budget also includes a number of cost saving measures, including some recommended by the Florida TaxWatch Government Cost Savings Task Force, and contains language that increases the accountability for results from certain spending.

There were still a significant number of Turkeys in the budget, and the lack of a systematic review and selection process in some areas is becoming more and more apparent. For this reason, TaxWatch calls on the Legislature to create such a process in three areas: Economic Development, Water Projects, and School and Instructional Enhancements.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Legislature provided funding for numerous community and economic development projects. These projects were specified in proviso in the Department of Economic Opportunity's (DEO) budget. Any of these projects that were added during conference received the Turkey designation. Several of the projects were included in either the House or Senate budget. Because there is no established process for selecting these types of projects and due to the focus of the Governor and Legislature on economic development and job creation, Florida TaxWatch is not putting projects that surfaced earlier in the process in this Report. Florida TaxWatch recommends that the Legislature create a process to evaluate and rank applicants for economic development funding.

This process should be administered by the Department of Economic Opportunity and Enterprise Florida and occur prior to session. The assessment should determine if the projects are consistent with the goals of DEO and the state economic development program, that there is a reasonable assurance that they will provide new jobs and a positive return on investment, and that there are accountability and performance measures in place to safeguard the taxpayers' investment. This Session, the Legislature stressed the need to improve the accountability of and measure the return on the state's economic development incentives. Appropriations for projects should be held to the same standard. We also recommend that the Governor consider these standards when reviewing this year's economic development projects whether they are in this Report or not.

WATER PROJECTS

Last year, Florida TaxWatch recommended a veto of all the Water Projects in the budget due to a lack of a proper review and selection process. The Legislature created a process this Session in which the relevant Appropriations Subcommittee in each chamber held a meeting devoted solely to members presenting project requests. The Governor also gave the Legislature a set of criteria upon which he would evaluate the projects. Eighty-eight projects worth $59.5 million ended up in the budget. Florida TaxWatch could not secure the necessary information to determine if the projects met the criteria or even if all projects were heard in committee. The Legislature could not supply us with a scoring or ranking of the projects or even a list of the projects that were presented. The Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) did not review the projects beyond checking if they applied for funding through the agency's programs. Florida TaxWatch attended both meetings and was able to review the video of the Senate meeting (the House meeting was not recorded). We also had the House member's self-reported applications that were in the meeting packet, but it was difficult to match up all projects as they appeared in the budget with the presentations and applications. However, because the Legislature created at least a basic review process, Florida TaxWatch is not including any projects in this Report and is confident the Governor will use his published criteria to effectively evaluate these projects.

Florida TaxWatch recommends that the Legislature strengthen and use section 403.885, Florida Statutes, which provides for the Water Projects Grants Program, under which the Department of Environmental Protection is required to administer the grant program and evaluate the proposals. Water Projects have been a popular area for member projects over the years and if the Legislature chooses to fund these local projects, then a thorough review process should be undertaken. The statutory criteria for funding water projects have been weakened over the years and need to be revisited.

SCHOOL AND INSTRUCTIONAL ENHANCEMENTS

A competitive selection process for School and Instructional Enhancement programs should be established by the Legislature. These supplemental education projects range from literacy, math, and arts programs to museums, sports safety, and culinary training. Some are statewide programs but most are more local in nature. There is no systematic review for these projects. This line-item in the budget is consistently a place where numerous member projects show up, often growing even larger in conference. This was especially true this year when 44 of these programs--worth $23 million--were funded. Several of those programs have been funded before and many more programs were added, with no accountability for performance.

This is not an indictment on or lack of faith in a program's mission. Many of them were established with a worthy mission to serve needed communities of Floridians. Projects in the Governor's recommended budget and projects that appeared in both the House and Senate budget are not in this Report. The items on the list were added in conference or were related to legislation that did not pass (Juvenile Justice Education Programs and Literacy Jump Start). Florida TaxWatch recommends the Governor, along with the Department of Education, review the remaining projects that appeared in either the House or Senate budget only on a case by case basis to ensure these projects are needed and provide Florida's students and taxpayers with the results and accountability they deserve.

TaxWatch also recommends that the Legislature create a competitive process for funding these types of projects. It is incumbent upon the Legislature to require that data specific to program outcomes be systematically reported so that taxpayers are assured that their hard-earned dollars are being invested appropriately. For programs that fail to provide outcome data in a fair manner prescribed by the agency, funding should be discontinued.

COAST TO COAST CONNECTOR

The cost and scope of this project, along with the way it was funded, warrants mention even though it is not designated as a Turkey in this Report. This $50 million project would fill in the gaps in the state's existing trail system to create a multi-use trail that stretches from Titusville to St. Petersburg. This item did not make the Turkey Watch Report because it was in the Senate budget from the very beginning of the process and this is a priority trail of DEP's Office of Greenways and Trails. The state already has acquired some of the land. The Legislature envisions that the money will be spent over five years, but that schedule may be ambitious. Florida TaxWatch has always had a concern with projects funded from the State Transportation Trust Fund that are not in the DOT work program, and this is not part of the program. Language in the budget implementing bill provides that these funds "may not reduce, delete, or defer any existing projects" in the 5-year work program. DOT has not been able to confirm to us that this is possible. The Governor should confirm that this project will not affect existing transportation projects before he approves the appropriation.

APPROPRIATIONS ADDED IN CONFERENCE

An appropriation added in conference is generally a Turkey as defined under Florida TaxWatch criteria, especially if directed toward a specific organization or locale. A project added in conference means that it was usually not requested by an agency or recommended by the Governor, and was not included in either the House or Senate budget as passed by the respective chamber. This lack of scrutiny was highlighted in a grand jury's indictment of a past Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives (who was cleared of charges) when it stated:

The appropriation process that gives unbridled discretion to the President of the Senate, Speaker of the House of Representatives and Appropriations Chairmen needs to be changed. The procedure currently in place requires that our elected Legislators vote on a final budget that they have no knowledge about because it is finalized in a meeting between only two legislators. This process allows taxpayer money to be budgeted for special purposes by those few legislators who happen to be in a position of power.

While this is not to suggest that any of these appropriations rise to the level purported in that case, it does serve as an important reminder that there can be serious problems with adding appropriations, especially to private or local recipients, late in the process. And perhaps more importantly, it is not fair to all legislators, and therefore unfair to all citizens of the state. This year, 70 Turkeys worth $48.7 million were added during conference.

BUDGETING WITHOUT DISCIPLINE

Just as the Rule of Law is critically essential in a civil society, so is the integrity, transparency and accountability of the budget process to ensure the highest and best use of the taxpayers' hard earned money.

WHAT ELSE COULD A TURKEY BUY?

One of the best arguments for stopping Turkeys is the many essential state services to which the funds spent on budget Turkeys could otherwise have been appropriated. The value of the opportunity cost of state funds is always a focus of Florida TaxWatch research and subsequent recommendations. The $106.8 million in Turkeys this year could have been spent on other items with further legislative action. Here are just a few alternatives to Turkeys:

- Sales Tax Weekends - Another three sales tax holiday weekends
- Manufacturing Tax Exemption - cover nearly the entire manufacturing sales tax exemption passed this year
- Early Learning Enrollment - 46,821 more children in early education programs
- Increase Teachers - 3,000 new teachers at the minimum salary of $34,856
- Ensure Compliance with the Rule of Law - $1 million could fund approximately 20 tax auditor positions or financial fraud investigator positions, both of which would return more money to the state than the positions cost
- Provide Tax Relief - A 0.25% cut to the corporate income tax rate
- Help Unclog the State Courts - New positions in the state court system could be funded; approximately 13 new positions could be funded annually per $1 million.

THE FLORIDA TAXWATCH BUDGET TURKEY REVIEW PROCESS

The annual Florida TaxWatch Turkey Watch is a review of the state budget passed by the Legislature. It highlights appropriations that were determined by Florida TaxWatch to have bypassed the proper appropriations review process. These items are highlighted for the Governor's consideration for line-item vetoes.

It must be stressed that this is not a critique of an individual project's merit, value or "need," but instead the review looks at how an item makes it into the budget, often pointing to instances where the Legislature has bypassed established competitive review processes. The analysis focuses on legislative projects placed in the budget without full opportunity for public review or which circumvent competition and lawfully established procedures. These appropriations often benefit a very limited special interest, a specific local area of the state, or a specific private organization.

"Public money ought to be touched with the most scrupulous conscientiousness of honor. It is not the produce of riches only, but of the hard earnings of labor and poverty."

Thomas Paine

An example: After the House and Senate each pass their respective budgets, a conference committee is formed to compromise the differences between the two. Florida TaxWatch believes that from a good public policy perspective, this should not be the time to add new projects into the debate. By doing so, the conference committee circumvents the established budgeting process and may afford only a few legislators the opportunity to make the decisions on how state funds will be appropriated. Because the final Conference Report cannot be amended, it can only be voted up or down, forcing the Legislature to vote the entire budget down in order to object to specific items. Again, many of these projects may be worthwhile, but the fact remains that special earmarks ignore or limit fiscal and performance accountability, agency flexibility and discretion, and often bypass competitive selection processes.

Most of these appropriations are local projects and tend to be “member projects” – appropriations requested by individual legislators for their district. The extent to which the state should fund local projects is a debatable issue, but when it does, care must be taken that a broad and public consensus has been reached on whether the state should be assisting with the funding of the specific type of local project. We should then ensure that the selected projects must have received sufficient review, followed any selection process that may have been properly established, and competed against other similar projects across the state.

It is important to understand that every year the state funds billions of dollars worth of “local” projects. These can be part of a statewide system for which it is generally accepted that the state has some responsibility, such as transportation or school construction. There are also state programs to fund projects that are perhaps more local in nature, such as parks, public libraries, and cultural programs.

Generally, these local projects are not specifically named in the Appropriations Act. The Legislature decides the level of funding and the funds are distributed to the projects selected through established processes. Securing local project funding outside of such processes – or funding one for which a process does not exist – requires that it be added by name to the budget document. These projects are examples of traditional Turkeys and form the core of the Turkey Watch review.

EXAMPLES OF TURKEYS

1. Projects that did not go through review and selection processes that are established in state law or rule. Examples include transportation, school construction and local parks. Projects that go through the process but are funded ahead of higher priority projects (as determined by the process) can also be Turkeys.
2. Appropriations that were inserted in the budget during conference committee deliberations, meaning they did not appear in either the Senate or House final budget.
3. Subsidies to private organizations, councils or committees that can and should obtain funding from private sources.
4. Local government projects benefiting local area residents but lacking significant local funding support and/or overall benefit to the state as a whole.
5. Appropriations that circumvent competition and mandate that a specific vendor or project receive funding.
6. Other Turkeys may include: appropriations from inappropriate trust funds, duplicative appropriations and appropriations contingent on legislation that did not pass.

RESEARCH PROCESS

The first step of the Turkey Watch review is to go through the final budget passed by the Legislature (Conference Report) in order to highlight specific appropriations that were added to the budget after the Governor's recommended budget. The focus is on appropriations for which the recipient is specifically named—such as a city or county, an organization, or a vendor. Appropriations in the Governor's budget are rarely considered in the Turkey Watch review. This is not to say that any Governor's budget is free of waste, questionable projects, or even parochial spending. However, if an appropriation in the Governor's budget makes it to the Conference Report, that generally means that it was reviewed and approved at all levels—agency, executive, and legislative. It should be noted that the Governor's budget contains far fewer specifically-named recipients than the Conference Report.

The next step in the TaxWatch review process is to determine when the item entered the process—whether during the agency budget request, the Governor's recommendations, via appropriations committee bills, the final House and Senate budgets, or in the Conference Report. Generally, the earlier an item has entered the process the better—Turkeys tend to show up later in the appropriations process. Usually, almost all conference-added items receive the Turkey designation. TaxWatch carefully considers allowing for some legislative flexibility if a project is truly beneficial statewide and was added due to unique and/or special circumstances, such as authorization to spend federal money that may have become available late in the appropriations process and therefore would not be utilized otherwise.

In further recognition of legislative prerogatives, TaxWatch does not usually designate items that were funded in both the House and Senate final budgets as Turkeys, except under special circumstances, such as bypassing an established competitive process for local projects.

After a list of potential Turkeys is developed, each item is researched and the relevant state agency is contacted to confirm that the agency did not include the item in the agency's legislative budget request. For the most part, an item requested by an agency is not a Turkey, because that means it was in the budget process from the beginning and the Governor and both chambers have a chance to review it and take it out. The agency also provides information as to whether the appropriation is consistent with the agency's mission, if the agency has been involved with the appropriated item previously, and if any proviso language unnecessarily restricts the agency or the item's options. TaxWatch also establishes whether the agency funds similar programs to the item(s) in question and, if so, how those projects are selected. Information can also be obtained from the Governor's Office, the Legislature, and the potential recipient of the funds.

ABOUT FLORIDA TAXWATCH

As an independent, nonpartisan, nonprofit taxpayer research institute and government watchdog, it is the mission of Florida TaxWatch to provide the citizens of Florida and public officials with high quality, independent research and analysis of issues related to state and local government taxation, expenditures, policies, and programs. Florida TaxWatch works to improve the productivity and accountability of Florida government. Its research recommends productivity enhancements and explains the statewide impact of fiscal and economic policies and practices on citizens and businesses.

Florida TaxWatch is supported by voluntary, tax-deductible memberships and private grants, and does not accept government funding. Memberships provide a solid, lasting foundation that has enabled Florida TaxWatch to bring about a more effective, responsive government that is accountable to the citizens it serves for the last 33 years.
